Guess the movie title using emojis

Keep up with the latest daily buzz with buzzfeed daily's newsletter! Picture: A∓M Films/ Channel Productions Hollywood pulled in about $12 billion in ticket sales in 2018, so it's safe to say the world is in love with movies. And it's worth remembering that the $12 billion only reflects box office takes. Movies that go straight to streaming, like Netflix originals and movies that never hit theaters, don't factor in. This means that thousands of films are made every year. No one could watch them all, but sometimes movies come out that you just don't want to miss. They are hyped beyond faith, and critics love them, your friends love them, the internet loves them, and you have to be there. If you let us know a little bit about the movies you love – your go-to movies for whatever mood you might feel – we can probably start painting a pretty detailed picture of who you are. The things that make you laugh, that make you scared, that make your adrenaline pump or make your eyes get a little foggy all tell a story about who you are. Most importantly, if we find out what your favorite movies are, we're pretty sure we can guess how old you are. Take the test and see for yourself! It's hard to argue against that point as well. After all, the '80s brought us from witty teen dramas to scary horror movies to action-packed thrillers. It was definitely a great time for moviegoers. The 1980s also began the careers of some of the biggest stars in Hollywood. Actors and actresses whose popularity increased significantly throughout the 80s include Tom Hanks, Harrison Ford, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Molly Ringwald, Winona Ryder and many others. These artists helped define film in the 1980s through their brilliant performances. Of course, directors also played a role in making 80s movies so great. Star directors like Steven Spielberg, Wes Craven, Amy Heckerling, John Hughes and Clint Eastwood all produced outstanding films throughout the decade, and most of their films still appeal to audiences today.
